IT is not possible that the Legislative Council can do justice to the collection of bills which were read a first time on the 25th without devoting a good many long and industrious sittings to their discussion. At present a session of three quarters of an hour is considered a long and arduous day's work and if two such were crowded into a fortnight the Council would be quite exhausted. It is to be hoped however, that with the stimulous of knowing that really important legislation is before them, the members will for the next month or so take greater interest in their parliamentary functions. The tone adopted by the GOVERNOR on the day of the last meeting seems to show that he is not by any means jealous of interference by the members of the Council, on the contrary that he is most anxious there should be a manifestation of real interest on their part in the work now going forward. He was most earnest in pressing on the members the propriety of calling on him for information connected with any clauses in the new bills which required elucidation and although it is not perhaps exactly the best way for a consultative body to deliberate,—this proposed method of deliberating individually and in private with the President,—the Governor's anxiety that they should ask him questions showed at least a desire that they should do something more than register his ordinances as if the Council were a lit de justice.

Never we suppose since the Legislative Council of Hongkong has been in existence has it been called upon to give its sanction to more important or widely reaching enactments than those before it at present. According to the standing orders there may be a discussion on the principle of each of these bills when it is brought on for a second reading, and after the second reading the Council will go into committee on the clauses. Now unless these forms are to be a farce altogether and reduce the Legislative Council to the lowest depth of degradation, they must be carried out earnestly and conscientiously. So far as the discussion on the principle of the new ordinances is concerned less time need be spent on that than on details. That legislation in connexion with piracy, the junks frequenting this harbor, the registration of houses in the Chinese quarter, and the police regulations for ensuring cleanliness, is required, can scarcely be a matter of doubt. It would be better however if even the principles of these bills were ventilated to some extent before they are passed on to committee, for it must not be supposed that they are deemed model enactments by all thinking men in the colony. One view which has been taken of the ordinances as a whole, is that they approach the purposes to be achieved in the wrong way; that instead of compelling junk-men to report themselves at the Harbor Master's office, and householders to furnish information, they should provide that the Harbor Master should keep a boarding boat to look after junks and that the registration should be arranged by canvassers, that in point of fact the methods proposed, involve the performance of government work by private persons with a multitude of other things to do. It is unnecessary to go into this point just now because we are dealing with another matter, but most assuredly it ought to be taken into consideration by the Council. Then again there is one other point which should not be forgotten when the second reading of some of these ordinances comes on. If the Legislative Council is ever to be reformed it must, even under its present organisation, show some anxiety for improvement. There are not two opinions so far as we have observed public opinion in this place, as to the desirability of expanding the functions of the Legislative Council. Every one is agreed that there ought to be a large addition to the number of non-official members, and that the Council should be promoted to the status of a political reality. An ardent desire for this does not show want of appreciation of an able and conscientious GOVERNOR. It is during the administration of such a man that a fundamental reform may be striven for with the best chance of success. Nor is a wish for it to be taken as an indication of distrust or jealousy of power in the hands of any one particular GOVERNOR. The colony is never for very long under one reign, it is at the mercy of the Colonial office and it is naturally anxious that in the future some precautions may be taken against the return of a such a period for instance as that of Sir JOHN BOWRING's administration. In referring to a time so far back as this there is no fear of wounding anybody's feelings, and as there seems a perfectly unanimous sentiment of disgust for the conduct of the government at that time, it is fair to conclude that the community would view its recurrence with great regret. Its recurrence however might be the event of any year, as the constitution of the Island is organised at present, and considering the growth, the importance of the colony and the brilliant future which may be before it this is a state of things which ought not to exist, which no GOVERNOR sincerely desirous of promoting the permanent advantage of Hongkong would wish to perpetuate, the reform of which would indeed, be the greatest act by which any GOVERNOR could celebrate his administration. At this moment when owing to the quantity of legislation simultaneously brought before it, the Council will necessarily occupy a more important position in the public estimation and in its own than it can have occupied for some time past, the opportunity for asserting its own claims to independance and a dignified position should not be lost.

The real work however, which the Council is now called upon to perform is to be done when the bills go into committee. If the members allow clause after clause to pass in silence without attempting to criticise them, to discover the faults which they contain, (and the tenderest regard for a draft ordinance cannot blind a man to the fact that there must be errors lying perdus somewhere which future experience will reveal at considerable cost but which patient investigation might discover in the first instance), if the Council in short fails to exert itself as if each man had the responsibility of these new laws upon himself, it will,—at any rate be quite impossible to express ones feelings. It is all very well for the members of Council to go privately to His Excellency asking questions, like good children showing an interest in their lessons out of class time, but that is not the proper way to set about this work which has to be done. A regular session, meetings, twice or three times a week for a month or more, and sittings of three or four hours intead of three quarters, is urgently needed at the present crisis. This will involve some little sacrifice of time on the part of the members it is true, and those who will feel the sacrifice most keenly are the non-official members whose presence nevertheless is most important. In order to meet their convenience as far as possible it would be desirable try if some other hour in the day would not be better than noon for the meetings. The standing orders mention noon as the usual hour of meeting but admits the right of special circumstances to change it. A later time would probably suit the members better and make it more possible for them to remain three or fourhours at work. This however, is a matter of detail. The main point is to impress the council with a conviction that the Public of Hongkong "looks towards" them as Yankees are supposed to say. The Public of Hongkong, (shall we, imitating Mr. Eugene Wrayburn in Dicken's last novel, "abbreviate this respectful tautology" and say the P.H.K.?), the P.H.K. is aware that in this emergency a great deal depends upon the members of the Legislative Council, and like our beloved country on a momentous occasion of which some of our readers may perhaps have heard, "expects every man to do his duty."

"GOD SAVE THE QUEEN."

Police Intelligence, August 2nd.
BEFORE J. C. WHITE Esq.

John Regan and John Duffey, seamen, staying at Blackwoods tavern, were charged with being drunk and assaulting Low-a-kum a licensed hawker.
Prosecutor stated that at about four o'clock yesterday afternoon he was carrying two baskets of fruit in Lascar Row, when he met the prisoners who stopped him and took some of his fruit. Upon asking for payment they kicked his baskets over, scattering his fruit in the street, and took hold of him. A European constable came up and took them in charge.
P. C. John Mahoney said that he saw the second prisoner holding on to the prosecutor's queue which was wound twice round his neck and prosecutor was bleeding at the mouth. The second prisoner was drunk.
Prisoner No. 1 said that he was drunk and did not remember anything about it.
The second stated that he saw the first scuffling with prosecutor and went to separate them.
They were each fined $1 and sentenced to pay the prosecutor $4 each.

PLAYING FOOT BALL IN THE STREET.
Victoria Flores, a boarding house keeper, was charged with causing obstruction of the street by playing at foot ball with some others.
P. C. 386 said that at about six o'clock yesterday evening the prisoner and several more were kicking a bamboo ball about in Hollywood road. A crowd of Chinese were round looking at the fun and obstructing the thoroughfare. Constable told him that he was obstructing the thoroughfare of the street and recommended him to go away.
Prisoner answered that it was no business of the constables.
Mr. Flores was dismissed and advised in future to go to the parade ground when he wanted to play foot ball.

SUSPICIOUS CHARACTER.
Leo-a-tung who described himself as a trader from Canton was brought up as a suspicious character, having run away on the approach of a constable.
P. C. 219, said, that he was driving away a lot of hawkers who were blocking up the thoroughfare, and prisoner who was standing near, suddenly took to his heels. Constable chased, and after a long run caught him. When searched, some cash two knives, and twelve bad dollars were found upon him.
Prisoner stated that he had just come down from Canton to buy some silk which is cheaper here than there, on account of exemption from duty.
Nothing was known against the prisoner, so he was allowed the benefit of the doubt, and discharged.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.
Lee-a-sam and Lee-a-see stone cutters at Kowloon were charged with attacking Lee-a-wa, tying him up in a house, and robbing him of three mace.
Lee-a-wa states, I am a farmer near Kowloon city. On the 1st instant about midnight I was returning from the Kowloon theatre in company with a female relative when we were met by the prisoners and three others, all armed with daggers. They seized us and took us to a village named Hoong Hom, where we were placed in a stone cutters shed. They demanded $ 00 of me. I said that I had no money and they beat me and the woman also. My hands were tied behind my back and one end of the rope made fast to the bed. The second prisoner drew his dagger and threatened to cut my throat if I did not give him $100. The woman was not tied up and she escaped early in the morning. She is so ill from the beating she received that she cannot appear in court to-day. I was not released until about eight o'clock. I was robbed of three mace.
The second prisoner said that prosecutor previously kidnapped his brother.
The case was remainded for further evidence.

STEALING A REVOLVER.
Mr. Jolps Busiere charged yung a Yee a coolie with being concerned in the theft of a revolver from his shop.
Prosecutor stated that having occasion this morning to send letter, he called for a coolie and prisoner and another came into his shop. He gave the letter to prisoner and shortly afterwards missed a revolver from his shop. Prisoner returned in due time with an answer to the letter and he accused him of stealing the revolver and gave him in charge. He did not think prisoner took it, but the coolie who came into the shop with him. Prisoner denies all knowledge of the revolver or the other coolie who went in the shop with him.
They Magistrate remarked that returning with an answer to the letter did not look much like theft, and prisoner was dismissed.

A FALSE CHARGE.
Chun a Hou charged two men with assaulting him. Prisoner stated that yesterday afternoon about five o'clock, he was walking with a friend near Ty-pin-shan market, when he saw six men, also walking. Prisoners are two of these men, They picked up some broken crockery and threw at him, cutting his head.
Prisoners stated that what the prosecutor had said was perfectly false. He owes them some money and when asked for it, began to abuse them. They did not assault him in any way.
The case was dismissed and prosecutor cautioned against coming into Court with such idle tales,

BAREFACED ROBBERY.
Chun a hing was charged by a stone cutter named Chun a lum, with stealing his hammer and chisel.
Chun a lum is a stone cutter living on the Praya West. Yesterday afternoon he left his work for a few minutes to get a drink, and on returning saw prisoner running away with his hammer and chisel. He ran after prisoner who dropped the tools and was stopped by a Chinese lukong.
Prisoner said he was once a boatman but now out of employment. He was walking along when he kicked against the chisel. Prosecutor accused him of trying to steal his chisel and beat him so he ran away.
He was sent to gaol for one month with hard labour.

MANSLAUGHTER.
Murwanjee Jurwanjee, the Police Constable No 220 who shot the woman at Pokfolum on the 25th ulto. and was found guilty of manslaughter by a coroner's jury, was to-day brought before F. W. Mitchell Esq.
P. C. William Williams was stationed at Pokfolum on the 25th ulto: and about ten o'clock prisoner and P. C. 260 came and made a statement to the effect that a woman had been shot by the prisoner underneath the second bridge. I immediately told P. C. No. 129 to get a lamp ready and accompanied by him. P.C 260, and the prisoner, went down to the archway and saw a woman lying on her face and a little blood on her left arm. I told P. C. 129 who can speak a little Chinese to speak to her He did so but she did not reply. I sent for a stretcher and brought her to the charge room, when I reported the case to Inspector Cronin, who arrested the prisoner, and sent the woman to the Government civil hospital. I went with the woman and left her there at about 2 A.M. on the morning of the 26th.
Dr. Murray Colonial Surgeon deposed that on examining the body he found a gun shot wound on the left side. The bullet had grazed the middle of the fore arm and entered the chest between the 9 and 10 ribs.
John Mahomet P. C. 129, stated that about 10 o'clock on the night of the 25th ulto the prisoner and P. C. No 260 came to him at the Pokfolum station and asked him to interpret for them to the European constable there. Prisoner then stated that he and No 260 were on duty on the Pokfolum road a few minutes ago, and they heard a gun fire, and stopped on the second bridge from the station, and five minutes afterwards we heard some one cough under the bridge. No 260 remained on the bridge and I went below. I stood from 15 to 20 yards from the bridge and saw a shadow under the bridge in the form of a human being. I hailed it three or four times saying 'who man.' No reply was made. I then advanced two strides towards the bridge and hailed the shadow in Chinese, "peen ko yan" again no reply was made. I then fired my musket at the shadow and immediately after I fired No 260 came down to me and we both went under the bridge and found a woman there. She was wounded in the left arm.
This the prisoner requested witness to report to the European Sergeant. I did so and he desired me immediately to get a light which I did, and accompanied him to the second bridge where I saw the body of a woman lying on her face with the left arm extended. The European constable told me to speak to her. I did so, but received no reply. The European constable then sent for a stretcher, and sent me back to the station.
Buntab Sing No. 260 deposed. I was on duty on the Pokfolum Road on the night of 25th July near the second bridge. The prisoner was on duty with me. I heard a gunfired. I immediately stopped and heard a sound from under the bridge as of some one coughing. I remained above and the prisoner went below. I saw him stop at about thirty yards from the bridge. Afterwards he moved nearer and I heard his voice calling out "who man" and afterwards he cried out "peen ko yan" I did not hear any reply to the challenge. I then heard the report of a musket and went down. I saw the prisoner about 20 yards from the bridge who said "I saw a shadow under the bridge and hailed it, but not receiving any answer fired at it." I then went with him under the bridge and saw a body. At first I could not make out whether it was the body of a woman or man, but in a few minutes we made it out to be a woman. She was lying on her face with her left arm extended. She had a wound on her left arm. I then accompanied prisoner to the Pokfulum station where through John Mahomet we reported it to the European constable who accompanied us back to the spot. I was then sent for a stretcher with the prisoner. We put the body on the stretcher and carried it to the charge room.
The prisoner being duly warned reserved his defence. He was fully committed for trial at the Supreme Court.

'SHUT UP IN HYDE-PARK.—A correspondent writes:—"About half-past ten last night (June 10) my progress from Piccadilly towards Kensington was impeded by a crowd assembled at the central gate leading into Hyde-park. On joining the throng I witnessed a scene which for originality and thrilling interest could not be equalled in any other capital in Europe. Shut within the park gates were assembled some thirty or forty persons of both sexes and various ages, who had lingered beyond ten o'clock within its precincts. The fiat had gone forth, the park-keepers were inexorable, and we outsiders were gratified with the exquisite spectacle of a number of women compelled to climb a high wall and triple chevaux de frise to regain the safety of Piccadilly. Nothing could exceed the terror and annoyance of these unhappy ones or the unfeigned delight of the crowd in the street, when each trembling voyageur in succession stuck fast on a kind of mauvais pas, consisting of an enormous horseshoe, garnished with sharp iron spikes, whereon, if she escaped impalement, she was certain to leave a portion of her garments. Then arose greetings from the crowd, 'Steady, old lady! Here's ancles!' 'She wears black stockings!' and so on. Meanwhile I observed the bull's-eye of a solitary policeman accurately focussed upon the aforesaid horseshoe, and conspicuously illuminating all that passed thereby. As it is probable that the humorous performance which I have endeavoured to sketch will be repeated 'until further orders,' I invite your readers to go any of these fine nights and observe it."—(Pall Mall Gazette.)

GODIVA OUT IN THE RAIN.—A letter from Coventry of June 4th says: Coventry fair reached its climax to-day with the procession of Lady Godiva, or "Godina" as the country people insist upon calling her. This is the first procession of the kind which has occurred since 1862, and it is likely that the next interval will be yet longer. When it was proposed to revive the show, some persons who object to it, wrote to Sir George Grey declaring their belief that Coventry was about to be the scene of an immoral exhibition. Sir George thereupon corresponded with the Mayor, who promised him that Lady Godiva should be "decently dressed". The town has been tricking itself out considerably for the occasion; many flags are flying, and Peeping Tom at his window has been newly painted and planned. In the morning there was a general gloom; the most formidable enemy of the pageant—that which helped to make a failure four years ago—had come: it rained violently. However towards ten it cleared off, and crowds from the neighbouring villages streamed in. It is estimated that there were not fewer than 50,000 strangers in the city. All of them went first to Broadgate to pay their respects to Peeping Tom. It was decided that Lady Godiva should join the procession at St. Mary's Hall, where she practised riding on the "spotless charger" for half an hour beforehand. The crowd at this point was enormous. About twelve o'clock the doors of the old hall were thrown open, and Lady Godiva came forth to the music of St. Michael's chimes, and was escorted by four mounted gendarmen to the procession. "Madame Annie Panten from the Royal Academy, Trafalgar-square," who personated Lady Godiva on this occasion, was "clothed on with" the dress of a somewhat careful ballet dancer. Madame Panten is a not ill-looking woman of middle age, and the cream-coloured horse, which she rode very well indeed, was superb. For the rest of the procession it was a shabby burlesque of characters. A few—as Robin Hood, Maid Marian, and a little shepherdess under a bower, with some sheep—were well enough, but Falstaff, Queen Elizabeth, Punch, and the like, were absurd. Some trade societies made a very good appearance, and there were also green and highly rouged Foresters. The procession, which was marshalled by the city surveyor, was moving about four hours altogether, at the end of which Lady Godiva and all the women and children were looking very miserable.

The Ministerial Crisis.

The papers contain interesting accounts of the government defeat on the 18th on Lord Dunkellin's amendment:—
The Committee divided at a quarter past one o'clock, and the result showed a majority of 11 against the Government, the amendment being carried by 315 to 304.—Frequent as have been the exciting divisions this Session, this scene surpassed them all in the frantic enthusiasm with which the defeat of the Government was received. When Lord Dunkellin took from the clerk the paper containing the numbers, the storm of cheers prevented him reading them out for a good minute; and when the decisive character of the majority became known, it rose again, accompanied by the waving of hats, clapping of hands, and other unusual and un-Parliamentary demonstrations. When silence was restored, Mr. Dodson proceeded to put the question that Lord Dunkellin's amendment be inserted in the clause, but was interrupted by Mr. Ayrton, who moved to report progress on the ground that, after Mr. Gladstone's explicit declaration it was waste of time to go on.—Some few faint cries of "No" were raised from the Opposition benches; but the Government offering no objection, the motion was agreed to.
The House sat at twelve o'clock, but no business was done, the Committee of supply being postponed.—At the six o'clock sitting, every part of the house was densely crowded with an excited audience eager to learn the result of the Cabinet Council held in the morning. The galleries were also completely filled, most of the leading members of the House of Peers, including the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Edinburgh, being present. Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Disraeli were loudly cheered by their supporters, as they entered the House.—After several questions had been put and answered, the CHANCELLOR of the EXCHEQUER stated that the Cabinet, having taken into consideration the vote and the debate of the previous night, and the votes and the discussions which had marked the previous history of the Bill, had thought it their duty to make a communication to Her Majesty. Some days, however, must elapse before the result of that communication could be stated to the House, and he moved, therefore, that the House at its rising adjourn until Monday, the 25th instant.—The orders of the day on the paper were read for the purpose of being postponed and leave was given to the Committees to sit; after which the House adjourned until Monday the 25th instant.
The latest intelligence on this subject in the papers of the 26th is to the following effect:—
Parliament met again last night after the adjournment, and Ministers announced in both Houses that the resignation tendered by them last week had not been accepted by the Queen. Nothing therefore, could be done without personal interview with Her Majesty, who would not arrive from Scotland until this morning. Both Houses accordingly adjourned until this evening, when the final decision of the Government will be made known.

THE WAR.
THE BATTLE BEFORE VERONA.

The accounts of the battle before Verona which took place on the 24th represent the defeat of the Italians as far more severe than the telegrams at first led us to suppose.
The Italian army, under the command of the king divided into three corps and a reserve—making up a force of from 80,000 to 90,000 combatants—after crossing the Mincio at Goito and other points on Saturday afternoon, June 23, and sending reconnoitring parties towards Peschiera and Verona, encamped for the night at some place beyond Roverbella, equidistant from the two fortresses. On the ensuing morning an attempt was made upon those high positions of Somma Campagna, and Santa Giustina, which command the 15 miles railway lines joining the two strongholds, positions which played a conspicuous part in the campaign of 1848. The object of the Italians was to take possession of the railway, so as to isolate Peschiera and secure a basis of operations against Verona. The Austrians, however, who were massed in great force at Verona, sallied forth from the place at daybreak, and, anticipating the Italian movements, took up their position upon those hills, which are now everywhere bristling with bastions and redoubts, and may be looked upon as mere outworks of the citadels, extending from the gates of one to those of the other. After a severe and bloody, or, as the Italians describe it, "desperate" struggle, which lasted nearly the whole day—that longest of summer days—the imperial army was victorious along the whole line. They stormed the summit of Montevento, where the Italians held out the longest, and at the close of the engagement, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, they also carried the position of Custozza, a spot fatal to Italian arms in their encounter with Radetzki in July, 1848. The victors captured several guns and about 2000 prisoners, and behaved, as the Archduke Albert's bulletin states with even more than their ordinary bravery and endurance. On the same evening the King of Italy with his army, was obliged to recross the Mincio where he is not likely to be pursued; but neither, perhaps, will the condition of his shattered army enable him to resume the offensive for some time to come.

THE JAMAICA COMMISSION

In Rees Glanmorf's Oriental Circular we read the following epitome of the report presented by the Jamaica Commission.
On the 18th inst. the official report of the Jamaica Commissioners was presented to both Houses of Parliament. It is a lengthy document, but its "conclusion" occupies less than a page. The total number of deaths caused by those engaged in the suppression of the rebellion amounted to 439; the total number of dwellings burned to 1,000; and the number flogged, although uncertain, cannot have been less, the commissioners think, than 600. Their "conclusions" are, in brief, as follows:—That the disturbances were owing to a planned resistance to lawful authority, that the causes leading to it were manifold; but were principally a desire to obtain land without rent, want of confidence in the legal tribunals in disputes affecting the negroes, personal hostility, and a wish for the death or expulsion of the whites; that although the original design was conceived in the parish of St. Thomas, it spread with singular rapidity over the island, so that had more than a momentary success been obtained by the insurgents a fearful loss of life and property would have attended their suppression; that praise is due to Governor Eyre for the skill, promptitude, and vigour which he manifested during the early stages of the insurrection, to the exercise of which qualities its speedy termination is in a great degree to be attributed; that the military and naval operations were prompt and judicious—but that the continuance of martial law was longer than necessary, that the punishments inflicted were excessive: that the punishment of death was unnecessarily frequent: that the floggings were reckless, and at Bath positively barbarous; and that the burning of 1,000 houses was wanton and cruel. The report is signed "H. K. Storks, Lieut.-General; Russell Gurney, and J. B. Maule," with "Charles S. Roundell, Secretary," and dated April, 9th, 1866. It is accompanied by a long dispatch from Mr. Cardwell to Sir Henry Storks expressive of the opinion of her Majesty's Government upon the facts elicited by the commissioners, and announcing that under the circumstances they do not think it advisable to reinstate Mr. Eyre in his government.

THE STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

The papers give the following account of the bill for the erection of the Straits Settlements into a colony.
A bill before the House of Commons provides that the Straits Settlements—that is to say, the island of Singapore, Prince of Wales' island, and Malacca—shall, at a time to be fixed by Order in Council, cease to be part of India; and Her Majesty in Council may establish laws and constitute Courts for the government of these Settlements. This transfer from the Indian to the home administration is made at the desire of the merchants in the Settlements. It will not entail any charge on the finances of the country—the Settlements will be self-supporting. Sir Hercules Robinson was instructed by the late Duke of Newcastle to report upon the subject of this change, and the report, which was made two years ago, recommends that the three Settlements be incorporated into one Crown colony, under one governor, with an executive council, and that for all legislative purposes there should be one council, composed, as in Ceylon and Hongkong, of official and unofficial member nominated by the Crown, the Governor to be enjoined to visit Penang, Malacca for the certain portion of the year.

THE "PRINCE ALBERT" CASE.

In the China Express inaccurate as ever, we read:—
"The news which lately reached this country of the confiscation of the steamer Prince Albert, for trading to the at present unrecognised port of Kiung-chow, has been followed by a notification from the Committee of the Privy Council for Trade, intimating that such Chinese ports as have not hitherto been opened to British trade are not to be considered open without a formal declaration to that effect. The notification also sets forth that the harbour-master at Hongkong will in future be instructed to issue no clearances for Kiung-chow until a British Consul shall have been duly installed at that port, and its opening has been publicly notified.

General Langievicz has just passed through Paris on his way to Switzerland from London. It may be remembered that during his captivity in Austria, Switzerland offered him the rights of a Swiss citizen, and it was in virtue of an application from the Federal Council that the general was released from his prison.

SUICIDES AT VIENNA.—During the month of April there were sixty-five attempts at suicide at Vienna, thirty-six of which ended fatally. Forty-seven of them were committed by men, fifteen by women, and three by children from nine to fourteen years of age. Twenty-two persons hanged themselves, fifteen drowned themselves, eleven took poison, five cut their throats, two shot themselves, and seven died of self-inflicted stabs.

PRECEDENCE.—An indignant "R.N." publishes in the Times a protest against being mixed up higgledy-piggledy in the Court lists with military captains and lieutenants, his inferiors in rank. He has just ground of complaint if he considers it a matter of any consequence to him or any one else. Nothing short of the most scrupulous accuracy in its performance can lend dignity to the not very intrinsically valuable Jenkins business; yet it is true, as "R.N." says, that it is constantly done in the most slipshod and slovenly manner. We are reminded of Lord Macaulay's parody on Lempriere's biographies: "Jones—Sir William a noted Orientalist; Duty, a fiend; Thomas, a foundling," when we read under the heading "Ladies" the names of the wives of barons, baronets, and knights, and the daughters of dukes and earls, all jumbled together, as they often are in these "correct lists," without the slightest reference to their respective rank. By-the-by, can any correspondent of Notes and Queries inform us at what date the dames of baronets and knights assumed the title of lady, which they now universally parade in society, and to which they have no more right than their husbands have to be lords? It must be admitted in excuse for the solecisms of the Jeameses of the daily press that they have not a good example set them at the fountain head. When it comes to gibbeting people in the Gazette itself, as we have seen it done now and then, as having been received at Court "by mistake" it is past a joke. It is quite right that certain persons should be excluded from her Majesty's Drawing Room, and Mr. Washington White or Lady Crackenbury are therefore obliged to send in their names beforehand on approbation. But it is one thing to be privately refused and another to be published to the world as damaged goods.

He has just ground of complaint if he considers it a matter of any consequence to him or any one else. Nothing short of the most scrupulous accuracy in its performance can lend dignity to the not very intrinsically valuable Jenkins business; yet it is true, as "R.N." says, that it is constantly done in the most slipshod and slovenly manner. We are reminded of Lord Macaulay's parody on Lempriere's biographies: "Jones—Sir William a noted Orientalist; Davy, a fiend; Thomas, a foundling," when we read under the heading "Ladies" the names of the wives of barons, baronets, and knights, and the daughters of dukes and earls, all jumbled together, as they often are in these "correct lists," without the slightest reference to their respective rank. By-the-by, can any correspondent of Notes and Queries inform us at what date the dames of baronets and knights assumed the title of lady, which they now universally parade in society, and to which they have no more right than their husbands have to be lords? It must be admitted in excuse for the solecisms of the Jeameses of the daily press that they have not a good example set them at the fountain head. When it comes to gibbeting people in the Gazette itself, as we have seen it done now and then, as having been received at Court "by mistake" it is past a joke. It is quite right that certain persons should be excluded from her Majesty's Drawing Room, and Mr. Washington White or Lady Crackenbury are therefore obliged to send in their names beforehand on approbation. But it is one thing to be privately refused and another to be published to the world as damaged goods.
